

LYNDA.COM THROUGH THE HOUSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

Lynda.com is an online educational resource with videos and step-by-step instructional guides in a wide range of topics. Graphic Designers at any level use their lessons to learn new techniques and software, and students can use their lessons to review design principals and history.

This course will use Lynda.com as an at-home supplement to in-class instruction. Students already familiar with the Adobe Creative Suite will need to use Lynda.com to explore the more advanced tools and techniques not covered in class lectures. This process would be self-led and may be tailored to your individual interests.

To get a library card you need a photo ID and some proof of a Houston-area address. A dorm address would count, but you'd need a bill or other document to prove you live there.

Register Online

Register in Person

You must provide a valid photo ID with your current address. The following types of photo ID are acceptable if they are not expired:

If the photo ID does not include your address, you will need to provide a separate document that includes that information. UH student IDs do not include your address.
